In Matthew 13 Jesus is teaching with parables. The parable of the weeds and the wheat can be summarized this way: A man sowed good seed on his land, but, in the night, an enemy sowed weed seed in with the good seed. When the plants began to grow, the man's workers noticed the presence of the weeds and asked the man if they should try to pull them up. He answered, "No, if you pull up the weeds you might uproot the wheat along with them. Let them grow together until harvest; then at harvest time I will say to the harvesters, 'First collect the weeds and tie them in bundles for burning; but gather the wheat into my barn.'" (Matthew 13: 24-30)

In today's reading the disciples ask for an explanation of the parable. Jesus tells them that he is the one who sows the good seed. They are the seed. The weed seed are those who do evil. They are sown by Satan. The harvest is the "end of the age" when the Kingdom of God completely comes. (Matthew 13: 36-43)

As I prayed, the first application of the parable for my life went something like this, "So Jesus is telling the disciples that the Kingdom (the Church) is not going to be made up of only good people. Some people (ideas, decisions, movements, etc) will not be of God. It is not a disciple's job to judge them. In fact, we may not be able to discern what is good and what is not. A disciple's job is to grow and bear his or her own fruit. God can tell the difference in weeds and wheat, and He will take care of the weeds eventually." Matthew recorded the disciples' question to help them and all future disciples work without too much distress when things disturb us within the Church. When we see what appears to us to be evil we should not be distracted from our own growth or take it to mean God is not in charge. (catholic.org)
